6 Escape In Train-Auto Crash

Highways Closed By Flood

Heavy Rains Hit City Area

Storms that spilled one and a quarter inches of rain on Mansfield yesterday and last night closed highways in the southern part of the county and flooded scores of basements in the city.

The Park Avenue East subway was closed most of the evening. Street department crews were busy all night, repairing washouts and checking on complaints of damage.

The weatherman predicted cloudy skies and more rain tomorrow.

A half-dozen county and state roads were closed last night, three because of washed-out culverts and three because of inundation. Three were opened early this morning. Workmen are repairing the others.

The rain, which began about 8 a. m. Sunday, reached a peak about 7 p. m. when a thunderstorm preceded a near cloudburst.

ROUTE 13 CLOSED

The state highway patrol reported that State Route 13 between Mansfield and Bellville was closed from 9 p. m. until early this morning as was State Route 97 between Bellville and Butler.

State Route 13 between Bellville and Mt. Vernon was covered with water and was still blocked at noon today.

The city street department's headhaches multiplied rapidly as debris resulting from Saturday's high wind blocked sewer spillways.

Taxed to capacity by the surging waters, the sanitary sewer line at Hedges and Second street burst last night. The street was damaged when the water welled up under the bricks and broke through the surface. Workmen were repairing the damage today.

Ashland road at East Fourth street was covered by a foot of water by 8 p. m., but cars continued to travel, the submerged road.

The Park Avenue East subway became impassable around 7 p. m. and traffic was re-routed via East Fourth street.

CULVERTS OUT

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk reported that the Darlington east and North roads and the Lost Run road in Perry township were closed because of washed out culverts. The Honey Creek road also was damaged.

Trains on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad were forced to travel at reduced speeds last night when the tracks were covered with eight inches of water near Bellville.

Approximately 200 homes in Knox county were flooded as the Kokosing river poured from its banks.

The river overflowed into Main street at Fredericktown, and backwater appeared on South Main street in Mt. Vernon.

Mt. Vernon schools were closed because numerous highways outside the city were closed and could not be traveled by school buses.

Several business establishments in both Mt. Vernon and Fredericktown were touched by the high water. The water ran four feet deep over a highway at the outskirts of Fredericktown, while the backwater in Mt. Vernon reached a foot in depth.

Vets Break Up Red Meeting

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP) — A Communist party meeting ended abruptly here yesterday after an estimated 100 shouting ex-servicemen marched into the meeting hall.

The veterans later burned communist literature in front of the building. Police Capt. Joseph Lang said the veterans paraded about 90 minutes in a continuous picket line in front of the hall before entering the building.

Angry Mother Burns Baby

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. — (AP) — Mrs. Lucille LaMarche, 21, was held on murder charges today. Police say they believe she shot her two-month-old son, Lawrence, into a stove yesterday morning in a fit of rage because the baby cried.

Police Called To Hold Back Coin Hunters

HIGHLANDS, N. J. — (AP) — The hunt for buried pirate treasure on the banks of the Shrewsbury river turned today into a battle of property lines. With 21 old coins and the latch of an ancient trunk already uncovered, property owners posted "no trespassing" signs and summoned police reinforcements to halt the swarms of fortune hunters converging on the beaches.

A coin dealer said the first finds were Portuguese doubloons worth about $75 each. He said it was possibly pirate treasure. Men, women and children armed with old screens, pails and shovels toiled through the sands yesterday, many not quitting even during a sharp rain which fell through the afternoon.

Colombia Breaks With Russians

Soviet Agents Linked To Bogota Revolution

(Editor's Note—Following is a pooled dispatch from correspondents in Bogota made public by the state department.)

BOGOTA — (AP) — The government radio announced today Colombia has broken diplomatic relations with Russia.

The break in relations followed an announcement yesterday that two Soviet Russian agents had been arrested in connection with Friday's revolution.

The government radio said 15 foreign agents, including two Russians, have been caught "in flagrante" (actions) and some were taken alive. It said three foreign agents were taken while trying to start trouble.

The announcer said delegates to the disrupted inter-American conference have decided to continue sessions of the conference here. He said this was done "so that communism could not triumph over Colombia and the rest of the nations of the hemisphere."

Shortly after dawn people in the downtown area where the United States embassy offices are situated began coming out of their houses in numbers unseen since Friday night.

Death Still Stalks City

(Here is one of the first completely uncensored accounts of events in Bogota.)

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
BOGOTA, Colombia — (Delayed) — (INS) — Terror and death still stalk the streets of Bogota today.

Snipers' bullets whine casually down the streets, from windows, street corners—even church steeples. And now and then there is heard the hoarse bark of one-pounder artillery.

Correspondents have seen corpses carted away by the carload. But the government will not say how many have died since the bloody civil strife broke out Friday.

Estimates by observers run from 500 to a thousand dead, with casualties still continuing. This, when the revolt has been termed by the new coalition government "under control."

Pedestrians risk their lives with every step — they move through the streets only with soldier escorts or, furtively hugging the walls, often with hands raised to indicate they are unarmed.

The Belgian ambassador Van Der Beck and his wife were forced to flee their homes when it was razed by fire Sunday. Their servant was slain. There is some fear that this indicates that disorders may soon be directed against foreigners.

Britain Unveils Memorial to FDR

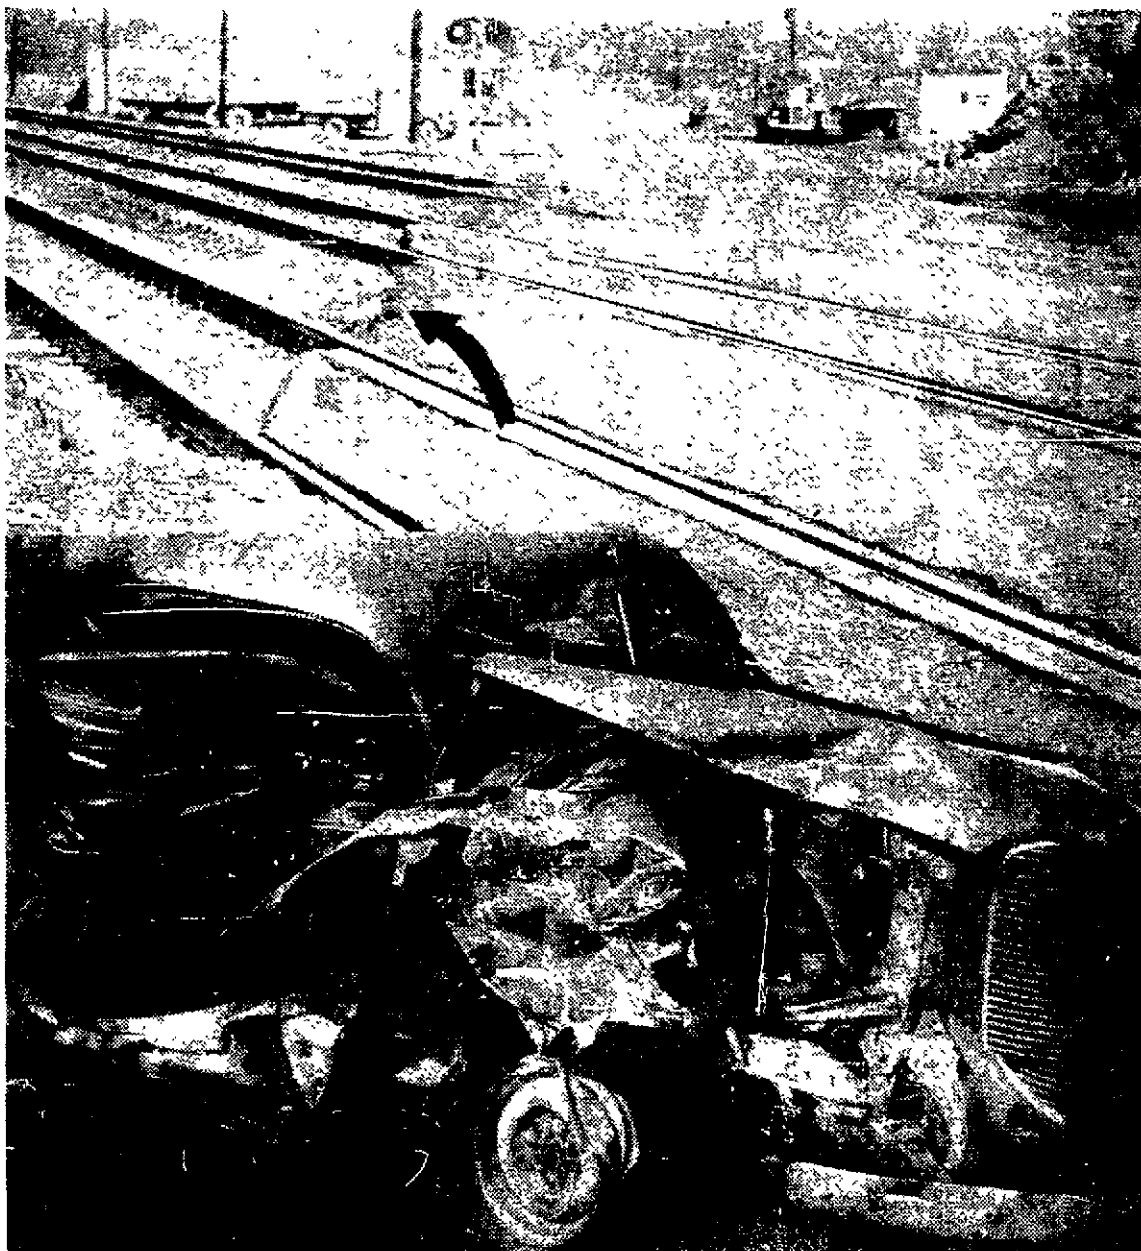

LONDON — (AP) — Britain's memorial to President Roosevelt was unveiled by his widow and dedicated by King George VI today.

While thousands watched, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt pulled a silver cord to disclose a 10-foot bronze statue of the late president, standing bareheaded, his cloak thrown back. Onlookers fell silent.

Then the king stepped forward past honor guards of American and Royal Marines to lay a wreath at the foot of the statue, under the simple inscription, "Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Following him, Mrs. Roosevelt and then other officials placed wreaths at the statue's base. The sculpture is the central figure of memorial gardens in front of the United States embassy in swank Grosvenor square.

In inviting Mrs. Roosevelt to unveil the monument, the king told British listeners it would be a "permanent reminder of our comradeship with the American people in the dark days of the war."

SCENE OF NEAR-TRAGEDY—Six Shiloh residents escaped death last night when they leaped out of an auto before a Pennsylvania passenger train demolished it at the Bowman street crossing one mile north of the city. Arrow shows direction the car was forced when the front wheels became lodged in the tracks when the driver attempted to turn into the road running along the tracks. Below is the wrecked auto. FCC Member Blasts Lamb

'Double Standard' Judgment Assailed

Granting of radio broadcasting licenses to Toledo Lawyer Edward Lamb, including a permit for Mansfield, was under fire today from Robert F. Jones, Lima, member of the Federal Communications commission who did not concur in the Lamb authorization.

Jones is on record today as charging the FCC with using a "double standard" in judging Lamb fit to operate a radio station in Mansfield.

Jones hastened at the judgment of the FCC majority in denying a radio broadcasting license to the New York Daily News and approving one for Lamb.

In its decision denying the New York newspaper a station, the commission majority ruled that it is proper for the commission "to determine on the basis of the applicant's previous activities whether he is likely to be fair in his treatment of racial and religious groups" (Continued on Page 2)

Fraud Charges Denied By 4

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Innocent pleas were entered today by Franklin County Commissioner George W. Matson and three building contractors charged with conspiracy to defraud and embezzlement.

The charges against the four men grew out of a special grand jury investigation of veterans' housing projects in the county.

The grand jury investigation was ordered by Attorney Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins. The state had allocated $337,637 for the construction of 76 prefabricated houses.

Says Russia Still Lacks A-Bomb

Forrestal Asserts Odds Favor Peace

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, asserting Russia knows how to make the atom bomb but is not yet able to do so, said today the odds still favor peace. But he urged Congress to move "at once and with firm and resolute purpose" toward the enactment of selective service and universal military training legislation.

These measures, Forrestal told the House armed services committee, will keep the odds in favor of peace "through the years ahead."

Forrestal testified as the committee began hearings on a bill to draft some 560,000 youths aged 19 through 25. The committee last year approved UMT legislation but it has since been bottled up in the House rules committee.

While Forrestal was testifying Dr. Albert Einstein and 10 prominent educators and clergymen urged congress to delay action on the draft until "the effects of the European recovery program have been seen."

Forrestal repeated previous statements — that he considers a balanced fighting force of the army, navy and air force necessary to meet the nation's security requirements.

Forrestal said there is a "deadly parallel" between Russia's actions today and Hitler's 10 years ago.

"The odds are still on the United States and peace," he said. "And if the United States acts at once and with resolute purpose, the odds will continue to rest on the United States and peace through the years ahead."

Killer Takes His Own Life

CINCINNATI — (INS) — A minor automobile accident may have been the partial cause of a murder and suicide in Cincinnati early today.

Police reported that when two automobiles collided, four boys jumped from one car to see what damage was done.

At the same time, they said, Mrs. Shirley Hessler, 22, a divorcee of suburban Mt. Healthy, staggered from the other machine in a hysterical condition.

As Robert Klekamp, 17, of Carthage, went to her aid, Arthur Lee Siegle, 26, of Cheviot, leaned out the window and shot the girl with a revolver. The bullet grazed Klekamp's heel, then struck Miss Hessler.

Investigating officers said Siegle jumped from the auto and sent three more bullets into his companion, killing her instantly. Then he placed the gun against his own head and took his own life.

The officers said they found a note in the auto that "made absolutely no sense."

Car Jumps Onto Rails Near City

Pastor Fails To See Curve

Cheating death by only a few seconds, a Shiloh pastor, his wife, and four young members of his church leaped from the path of a Pennsylvania passenger train last night after the wheels of their car became lodged in the tracks at the Bowman street crossing.

Deputy sheriffs today were investigating possibilities of improving the crossing which has been the scene of a number of accidents in recent years.

"Very thankful" that the harrowing experience didn't become a tragedy, the pastor, Rev. Carl S. Gladfelter, told The News-Journal today, "I can't complain that crossing; it's a nasty one."

The 38-year-old minister of the Shiloh Lutheran church helped his passengers to safety just before his 1935 model car was ground to wreckage by the speeding train.

"We were returning from a Luther League conference meeting in Bellville," he said. "It was the first time I had driven on the Bowman road. As I approached the crossing I saw that a road angled to the left along the tracks — it seemed planer than the other road. It was about 8:30 and it was raining."

CAR LEAPS RAILS

"I turned into the road but the first thing I knew the front wheels hit the track and threw the car between the rails. I kept trying to get the car back on the road, but I couldn't. When we heard the train coming, we jumped free of the car and hurried to the back where we watched it demolished by the train."

With Rev. Gladfelter were his wife, Mrs. Sue Gladfelter, 37; and members of the Luther League of the Shiloh church: Charles Wolfersberger, 15, and Dorothy Dent, 14, both of Shiloh; Charles Meller, 15, and his sister, Mary, 16, both of Shelby, R. D. 1.

The crossing is marked by flashing lights although the pastor said the lights weren't in operation when he approached the crossing. Deputies said today they'd check reports of other accidents at the crossing to determine relationship with last night's mishap.

Killed In Auto Crash

John G. Brandt, 48, former Mansfielder, was killed early Sunday when his car crashed into a telephone pole and tree two miles north of Hebron, Licking county. Mr. Brandt, who reportedly died of a crushed skull, was returning to his home in Newark at the time of the accident.

The body will be returned to Mansfield Tuesday when it will be taken to the Wagnner funeral home prior to services Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the Apostolic Christian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Born June 11, 1899, Mr. Brandt came to Mansfield as a child. He was former salesman for the Kearns Packing company here. At the time of his death he was the Newark district manager of Commercial Motor Freight, Inc.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lydia R. Brandt; two sons, John Jr. and Richard E. at home; two daughters, Mrs. James Crandall of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Joseph Whyde of Newark; three brothers, William, Adam and Charles Brandt, all of Mansfield; five sisters, Mrs. Frank Konves, Miss Minnie Brandt, Mrs. Paul Hoffman, and Mrs. Neil Cannon of Mansfield, and Mrs. Harmon Blue of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; and one grandchild. His mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Brandt died in March.

Bus-Auto Crash Kills Ohio Woman

PORTSMOUTH — (AP) — The collision of a Greyhound bus and an automobile in the downtown area cost the life of Mrs. Ella Goolsby, 51, of Hillsboro today.

Mrs. Goolsby, one of six persons hurt in the crash last night, died in a hospital this morning. She was a passenger in the automobile.

Judge Orders Him to Trial For Contempt

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John L. Lewis won $100-a-month pensions at age 62 for his 400,000 miners today and gave the striking coal diggers words to go back to work.

But, despite settlement of the 29-day mine stoppage, Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ordered Lewis to face trial Wednesday at 10 a. m. on contempt of court charges.

The government has accused Lewis of contempt for alleged failure to comply with a court order of April 3 to end the strike. Goldsborough ruled that the pension agreement has "absolutely nothing to do with the contempt proceeding."

He said that was his "final conclusion" on this point and would permit "no argument."

Lewis had asked the pensions at age 60, but accepted a proposal from Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) to put the figure two years higher. Ezra Van Horn, of Cleveland, representing the mine operators in negotiations with Bridges and Lewis, opposed the plan but was "out-voted."

With the agreement, Lewis telegraphed his miners: "Pensions granted. Agreement honored."

F. A. Voegelé Succumbs In Hospital

Business Leader's Rites Wednesday

Frank Albert Voegelé, 70, senior member of Voegelé Brothers, Mansfield builders supply firm, died Sunday noon at General hospital. Mr. Voegelé entered the hospital early last week suffering from a heart ailment.

A prominent churchman, Mason and civic leader, Mr. Voegelé spent his entire life here. He was born in Mansfield Feb. 12, 1878, the son of William F. and Mary Ackerman Voegelé, pioneer residents of the city.

Mr. Voegelé was a charter member of St. Matthew's Lutheran church and at the time of his death was church treasurer and councilman. He was superintendent of the Sunday school for 25 years.

He was a member of the Mansfield lodge, No. 35, F. and A. M., the Mansfield Chapter, No. 23 R.A.M., Mansfield Council, No. 94, R. and S. M., Mansfield Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar, and Scottish Rite, Valley of Dayton.

He also belonged to the Knights of Pythias, Westbrook Country club, of which he was a charter member; the Our club, Elks lodge and the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce. He was a director of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank and the Richland Trust company.

Mr. Voegelé is survived by his wife, Charlotte Fitzgerald Voegelé; two sons, Gerald W. Voegelé of Wyandotte, Mich., and Dr. Albert H. Voegelé of Mansfield; one daughter, Mrs. Virginia Green of Mansfield, and one brother, Attorney William H. Voegelé of Mansfield, a member of the Voegelé Brothers firm.

The body is at the Jones Memorial where friends will be received until 1 p. m. Wednesday, when the body will be taken to the St. Matthew's Lutheran church for funeral services. It will lie in state until 3 p. m. Wednesday. Dr. Charles F. Sheriff will officiate. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Bridges described the pension plan he advanced as a "tentative one." He came into the case because last Saturday he accepted a post as "neutral" trustee of the miners welfare fund.

This fund, running into millions a year, was created by an agreement last year for 10 cents a ton royalty on every ton of coal mined. The 10 cents goes to the fund.

The plan calls for $100 a month pensions of miners age 62 with 20 years service who retired after May 28, 1916.

The Bridges plan was approved by a 2-1 vote of the welfare fund's trustees Bridges and Lewis voted for it.

Van Horn told reporters he voted against the plan for two reasons.

1. He believes the age 62 for pensions is too low.

2. He believes the $100 monthly benefit cannot "be sustained by the pension fund," that there will not be enough money from a 10-cent-a-ton royalty.

Van Horn said the Bridges plan is practically the same as what Lewis had wanted all along, except that the retirement age was put at 62 instead of 60 years.

Fruit Truck Strike Called

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A strike against 16 fruit and vegetable commission houses was set today for 12:01 p. m. Thursday.

Drivers and helpers employed by the firms, which serve an eight-state area within 300 miles of Cincinnati, voted the walkout yesterday. They ask a 20-cent hourly increase, and a guaranteed work week.

Samuel Butcher, business representative for the Commission House Drivers and Helpers local (AFL), said 350 drivers voted in favor of a strike to 16 against 1.

Later, Joseph H. Hoodin, attorney for the Cincinnati Fruit and Vegetable association, said the commission's houses would "keep on regardless."

Starlings Continue To Outsmart Smart Guys Who Try To Oust Them

WASHINGTON—(UP)—There's a starling born somewhere every second.

And at least every other second somebody comes up with a sure fire cure for the black-feathered, yellow-beaked pests.

Washington is full of starlings. So are a lot of other cities. Here, officials have done about everything imaginable to shoo the birds off government property. But always the starlings have proved to be smarter than people.

Somewhere tried to scare 'em to death by heating on tin pans and footling bugles a few years ago. That gave the starlings a good laugh. They flitted and fluttered in great glee, enjoying the concert and flapping their wings for an encore.

Uncle Sam once hired some small boys to march around the infested buildings with balloons tied to strings—bogeysmen painted on the inflated rubber. The starlings pecked the balloons and enjoyed the resulting "pop."

A learned professor suggested birth control, right in the stuffy, proper halls of Congress. Oil in the feed pans to be carried back to the nest on the feathers of the mama bird, to run the eggs so they wouldn't hatch. Somehow they hatched anyhow.

An inventor the other day tried out a mechanical owl. A head-bobbing, wing flapping critter. The starlings fled the treasury building in terror. But they came back when the learned owl didn't bite.

Well, eureka! We've got 'em this time, most likely.

Thanks to a man named Lawrence Gichner, who harbors a kind of selfish love in his bosom for starlings. They bring him business. Mr. Gichner specializes in bird-proofing roofs.

It works, too, he said. He hasn't been able to break through the government red tape yet, but he's tried several bank buildings here on for size.

Mr. G. a round, serious little man, behind his silver-rimmed glasses, has put common sense to work.

Sensible, too. He made some very down-to-earth personal observations. Broken up into two categories.

He looked and he saw:

(1) That birds, including starlings, sleep fitfully when sitting on a hill.

(2) They don't like to sit on tacks, either.

Simple as that. The roofer gives his customers their pick of idea one, or two.

Russians Preparing To Make Use Of Quislings In German Offices

THESE ARE Moscow's plans for Berlin: Their quisling is slated to be Nodolny, ex-German Ambassador to Moscow. Marshal Von Paulus is slated to be the head of the New German Army. He's figured to have 150,000 crack troops ready now. The Germans claim Stalin is holding 2,500,000 more war prisoners. Stalin admits to nearly a million. (He's also got over a million Japs).

Behind the headlines a terrific undercover battle is on. Chief strategic material is newsprint. The Germans supporting the Marshall Plan carried 80 per cent of the Berlin elections. The Soviets are taking a terrific shelling in the key unions—such as the Berlin police.

The immediate objective of the Red blockade is to prevent any of the German leaders favoring us to get out. They will be massed in five to get out. In the intelligence game, it is a sacred obligation to deliver your friends from an exposed position—or you will never get help again. (In spite of denials, British Intelligence got Mikolajczyk out of Warsaw). The general Commy objective is to discredit us with the Western Union alliance at the same time they set up the Second New Germany. The intelligence department of all major powers are engaged—right now—in the Second Battle of Berlin.

This should make Franco's friends in Congress proud: The Communist G. P. U. (Stalin's personal intelligence service) is performing hangman's services for Dictator Franco at a desert camp in Central Asia. At the end of the Spanish Civil War, there were several hundred Spanish citizens in Russia.

Spanish air cadets arrived in Russia at the end of 1937. They received training in the aviation school at Baku where they remained under very good conditions, until March, 1939. They were then sent to a Moscow rest home, again with very good treatment, until June, 1941, when the German-Russian war started.

As if they were Soviet soldiers the Spanish air cadets were summoned for medical examination and asked to choose between remaining in the Soviet Union, returning to Spain, or going to France or America, those who chose to remain in Russia were released during the next few days.

Those who had requested permission to go to Mexico were led to believe that their wish would be met promptly but that was far from the case. One night, G. P. U. agents came in cars and forcibly took away the men who had asked to go to Mexico. Nothing has been heard from any of them since.

Your reporter's source saw Masaryk very shortly before he died. He was cheerful and bore no signs of strain. Through the diplomatic grapevine, this is what the Czechs believed happened the night Masaryk was killed: The Czechs completely reject the suicide version. They believe that a strong-arm squad of Russian intelligence called on Masaryk. They produced documents (letters he had written to friends) and told him he was going to do as he was told or stand trial for treason.

Masaryk had a pistol—and when he reached for it the squad finished him. His body was laid out on the courtyard. There were no visible bruises, and the Czechs said that had he jumped his body would have shown it. Of even deeper significance, there were four Masaryk servants in the apartment that night. They have disappeared. If Masaryk had committed suicide, they would not have been spared away. In short, the same mob who pulled the job took care of the material witnesses as part of the same drive—a la Jack "Legs" Diamond.

Funds Top $56,000 In UJA Drive

Haganah Member Gives Talk Here

Although the United Jewish Appeal campaign in the Mansfield area didn't open officially until last night, there was $56,000 in the campaign coffers or pledged in the drive today.

The campaign got under way officially last night with a rally attended by several hundred persons in the new Temple Emanuel.

The area campaign goal is $75,000. No time limit has been set. Leaders of the campaign said today they were confident of reaching the goal.

Speaker last night was Murray Aranoff, who fought with the Haganah in Palestine and was a member of the crew of the ill-fated ship Exodus which attempted to run the British blockade at Palestine with hundreds of displaced persons.

Aranoff told the audience that although the British expect to pull out of the east on May 15 and the United States has changed its attitude toward the partition, the Jews will fight on in Palestine.

"Many are broken in body today," Aranoff said, "but no one is broken in spirit. Their courage is stronger than ever."

He said the camps in Europe where these displaced persons have been sent are as bad as the concentration camps of the war.

Leonard J. Goler is chairman of the drive for funds here. Vice chairmen are M. J. Berer and Leonard R. Hurwitz. J. C. Kalish is treasurer of the campaign and all contributions are to be sent to him or to members of the committee.

Mrs. Hurwitz heads the women's division, and she will be assisted by Mrs. David Ellison and Mrs. Goler.

Just Men Won Jobs For Jock

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—He wasn't the kind of a man many people will mourn deeply, a cold guy and a hard one, but anybody in the football world will be proud to say that he played for Jock Sutherland.

The big doctor who heard the final whistle Sunday was an iron man who taught iron football. With him you touched the power only faintly with guile and you ground down the other fellow until you could walk on him.

Sutherland was a tireless and harsh taskmaster who looked upon his players as machines, not as human beings to be praised when they did well. He was a perfectionist and a fundamentalist and those tactics were too demanding to foster a brotherly bond between him and his players.

And the "Dour Scot" helped build this legend. It made his job easier, intense, he lived, breathed and thought football all his waking hours. And he laughed when they called him "hard-headed Jock." For those driving, drill master tactics produced technically sound and physically perfect eleven.

"Conditioning," the huge, stern-faced man used to say, "is everything. Actually, the only way you can get any fun or any results out of any sport is to be in shape."

And when he left college coaching behind him and went with the pros, Jock gave them the same medicine. When he went to Brooklyn most of the Dodgers took a prompt dislike to him. He treated them as though they were college freshmen, throwing away the old plays and setting them to work at blocking and tackling, the well-loved fundamentals.

It wasn't that the tactician man didn't like people. But Jock was friendly and wretchedly poor when he came here from Scotland as a boy and it took him a long time to even partially overcome the reserve hampered into him by those years in which he was a nobody.

It wasn't often you pierced that armor over him. But there were big games, the ones he particularly wanted to win, when he'd go out there to the bench in mid-afternoon without having eaten a bite of breakfast or a bite of lunch.

"Not hungry," he'd tell his friends, shortly.

Outside he was placid and aloof. Inside he was churning, wanting this ball game. He never made them a speech telling them about it. That wasn't his way. As far as Jock was concerned he had them ready as possible.

The bruises for which they secretly swore at him were proof of that. He had given them the fundamentals, and the conditioning. The rest was to them.

And the record bears silent testimony of how often it worked.

For in 24 years of coaching Jock's clubs won 172 ball games. They only lost 44 and 15 came out dead heats.

There aren't many greater records than that in the history of the game. Four, as a matter of fact.

That's why a lot of men, who may not have loved him, can be proud they played for the "Iron Doctor."

They should be, too. Because to play for Jock you not only had to be a man, you had to be a good one!

Funeral Rites Set for Sutherland Tuesday

Grid Great Dies After Operations

By ALLEN C. HOFFMAN

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — The football world today planned a state funeral for Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers professional team, whose death cost the game one of its greatest figures.

The four denizens of the sport for 24 years, Sutherland died of a brain tumor at 4:15 a. m. Sunday at the age of 55. The end came swiftly, just a few days after Sutherland was found wandering aimlessly in a Kentucky mud-choked swamp, apparently the victim of amnesia. Two emergency operations failed to save his life.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday in Calvary Episcopal church here. Sutherland's body will lie in state at the church all day Tuesday, watched over by a guard of honor from the Varsity Lettermen's club at the University of Pittsburgh, where Sutherland coached football for 15 years.

Active pallbearers will be the members of the 1947 Steeler eleven.

MICHELSEN TO COACH

Johnny Michelsen, a former Pitt player and Sutherland's chief assistant, is due to be named head coach of the Steelers. But that announcement won't come for a week or so.

Sutherland was found Wednesday in a mudfield, near Bandana, Ky. Rushed to a hospital at near-by Cairo, Ill., he kept repeating "I am Jock Sutherland." But he seemed to know little else.

Friday night he was flown in a private plane to Pittsburgh and Saturday afternoon Dr. W. F. Weaver announced that the insistent exponent of the single wingback formation was suffering from a brain lesion.

UNDER KNIFE TWICE

Immediately Sutherland went into the operating room for an "exploratory" operation. He was on the table three hours and a quarter. Later in the evening he went in for a second operation. That one lasted from 7:30 p. m. to 1:02 a. m. Then at 4:15 a. m. Sunday he died, with a sister and a brother at the bedside.

A machine minded coach who didn't go for the melodramatic style of tutoring the 236-pound Sutherland once said, "I never have asked a team to play for me, and I never will. I just hope they'll do their best."

STARS FOR WARNER

Sutherland was a poor Scottish lad when he came to America from Cooper Angus, Scotland in 1907. He worked in Pennsylvania towns for seven years before he could enroll at the University of Pittsburgh, where he studied dentistry.

He had never seen a football game but became a star guard under Coach Glenn (Pop) Warner.

After graduation, Sutherland served in World War I and coached his first football team, Camp Greenleaf—to a soldier championship. In 1919 he went to Lafayette college at Easton, Pa., and coached for five years, winning 23 games, losing eight and tying two.

From there he went to Pittsburgh, and was coach for 15 years. His team went to the Rose Bowl four times and declined a fifth. Their record was 111 won, 20 lost and 12 tied.

KEISER ACCEPTS

NEW YORK — (UP) — Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, a member of the 1947 Ryder Cup team, has accepted an invitation to play in the credit round robin golf tournament at New Rochelle, N. Y., May 16 to 19, tournament supervisor Harold McSpoden said today.

Washington Has Hurling-But Little Else

By LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK — (UP) — Strange things have happened to the Washington Senators this spring. When the players reported to Manager Joe Kuhel at Orlando, Fla., they were tagged as a club with good pitching but doubtful hitting. Things have been in exact reverse.

The Senators have been hammering the ball all over the lot in exhibition games and their pitchers, with the exception of Sid Hudson and Walt Masterson, have taken a terrific pounding.

But matters promise to right themselves before the season opens, with the Senators going to the barrier with pitching, but little else.

Kuhel, in his first season as a major league pilot, faces a tremendous rebuilding job.

He doesn't have much, outside of his pitching staff, to work with. There are some promising rookies in camp, Gil Coan and Al Kozar in particular, but for the most part they appear to be a year or two away from the majors.

But he is going to go along with what he has and he is hoping for the best. And he knows that best will not be better than fifth place in the final 1948 standings—if it's that good. If the Browns weren't in the league, The Senators probably would be an odds-on favorite to finish in the cellar.

Only two spots outside of pitching are set—Mickey Vernon at first base and the catching staff of Ray Evans as the No. 1 man and Jake Early as his understudy. The battle for the other jobs is wide open.

It looks, however, like Kozar will get the second base job with Johnny Sullivan at short and Eddie Yost at third. Even with Vernon thrown in at first base, it doesn't measure up to major league standards in either fielding or hitting.

Mark Christman will stand by to take over either short or third if Sullivan or Yost fail to last.

Only Coan, who looks as if he finally has arrived this spring, is sure of an outfield berth. Kuhel has been playing the Chattanooga graduate in right field with Tom McBride, the Red Sox castoff, in center, and Sherry Robertson in left. That leaves the best fielding gardener on the Washington roster—Earl Wooten—on the outside looking in.

Wooten can go and get them with anyone in center field, but like Kozar, he isn't expected to take to major league pitching very well. Other outfield candidates are Leon Culberson, another Red Sox castoff, and Dean Stafford, a rookie who hit .378 with Greenville last season. Stafford is at least a year away.

Kuhel brought a dozen rookie pitchers to camp, but only three of them probably will be retained.

They are Forrest Thompson, the southpaw drafted from Atlanta where he won 16 games last season; Joe Jones, a side-armed from the Florida State league and Ramon Garcia, a Cuban right hander.

Only Hudson and Masterson of last year's holdovers have been effective this year. The others—Early Wynn, a 17-game winner last year who is being sought by many clubs including the Yankees; Mickey Haefner, Rae Scarborough, Milo Candini, Tom Ferrick and Martono Pieretti—have been getting their ears pinned back regularly, even by minor league clubs.

But Kuhel is sure they will regain their effectiveness by April 19, when the Senators open against the Yankees at the nation's capital.

They had better for without pitching there doesn't seem to be any bottom to where the Senators could fall.

Feller Fans Eight Giants As Tribe Triumphs, 12-4

TULSA, Okla.—(INS)—The Cleveland Indians have defeated the New York Giants only twice in their last six games on their barnstorming tour and both times Bob Feller has been on the mound.

Rapid Robert went seven innings last week and dropped the Giants and yesterday at Oklahoma City, he hurled eight frames and gave up only two earned runs as his mates blasted out a 12-4 victory over their Gotham city rivals.

The Giants did not score on Feller, who struck out eight batters in the first three frames, until the fifth inning. He gave up an unearned run in the sixth, partly because of his own error in failing to touch first base as he covered the bag on a ground ball. Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr then singled the runners across the plate.

Meanwhile the Redskins were battering three Giant pitchers for 12 hits and an eight-run sixth inning which was highlighted by a home run by Pat Seerey, his fourth in two days.

SEERY WINS BERTH

Following the game, Manager Lou Boudreau announced that portly Pat would be his starting choice for the right field spot on opening day.

All the Cleveland starters except Feller and Boudreau connected safely at least once. Thurman Tucker rapped two doubles, Eddie Robinson a double and a single, Joe Gordon two singles and Joe Tipton a pair of singles.

MUNCRIEF DUE TODAY

Feller encountered difficulty in only one inning before he retired. Singles by Kerr and Jack Conway, the first two hits off him, and his only base on balls filled the bases with two out in the fifth. Bobby Thomson was the next batter and he popped out to Boudreau.

Bob Muncrief and Steve Gromek will share the Indians' mound duties today when they meet the Giants here, in the 11th game between the two clubs this season. Larry Jansen, the New Yorkers' ace, probably will start for the Giants and may go the route.

Senior High Tops Latest Relays List

Mansfield Senior high school was one of the four schools entering the famed Mansfield Relays this morning. The 17th annual running of the big event is listed for Friday and Saturday at Stadium Field.

With only 11 schools and 124 individuals entered, Director Harry Mehock expects a heavy influx of entries within the next two days. None of the Cleveland or Akron schools have sent in their blanks. The entry list closes Wednesday at midnight.

Senior high's team roster includes 29 names, the largest of any of the early entrants. The other trio of today's entrants are: Cincinnati Walnut (12); Sulphur Springs (1) and Oak Harbor (4).

Augie Morningstar, Tiger director of athletics, today announced the officials for the spring grid game Friday night at Arlin field.

The officials will be Pat Pasini, E. L. Barker and Monk Gross. All have been signed to officiate in the Relays Saturday.

Barons Take Hockey Title

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—The Cleveland Barons wore their American Hockey league crown jauntily today after running through all opposition in near record time in the Calder cup finals.

The Barons took the cup with a 6-2 series victory here last night for a sweep of four games in the final series. In the nine games the Barons had to play in order to win the cup, they lost only once to the Providence Reds in the semi-finals.

The Bisons, playing before a crowd of 9,961, made a game of it for two periods before finally succumbing to superior power last night. In each of the first two periods the Buffalo team went ahead by a goal, only to have the Barons tie it up before the period ended.

times good, just as often bad — quered Pinto's chances.

Pinto rolled his 726, highest series of the tourney, in the doubles yesterday. But his partner, Jim Gallicchio, could collect only 508 and kept the pair out of the "first ten" with 1234.

Local Boy Near Top In Contest

Bill Houghton, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Houghton, 617 Brae Burn avenue, is going to receive an autographed copy of Bob Feller's baseball saga—Strikeout Story.

Not only that, but Bill, a Johnny Appleseed student, will receive two tickets to any Cleveland Indian home game this season as his prize in the contest to select a barboy for the Tribe this summer. Bill was one of 5,000 entries, and as the list was pared down, Bill remained in the running.

One of the required projects was an essay, and Bill stayed in the running until the final 100 boys were being judged. He did not gain the final seven, but as the only Mansfield entry made a fine showing in the contest, which attracted youths from all over northern Ohio.

The local lad, a keen baseball student and fan, will receive his book-autographed by the Tribe's Bob Feller—late this week.

Joe Louis Due To Return Today

NEW YORK — (UP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who recently concluded an exhibition tour in Great Britain, is scheduled to arrive today aboard the Queen Elizabeth and sign articles tomorrow for his June title fight with Joe Walcott.

Following the signing, which will take place at the New York State Athletic commission, Louis will open training at Grenloch, N. J., Thursday.

Harmon Ties Record For Golf Crown

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(AP)—The 12th annual Masters golf tournament is over, but not the mopery of dark-horse Claude Harmon's victory with a record tying 279.

For Harmon, a stocky club pro who winters at Seminole club, Palm Beach, Fla., and summers at Winged Foot, Mamaroneck, N. Y., the victory yesterday was worth $2,500.

His 279 tied the Masters' record set by Ralph Guldahl in 1939.

The 31-year-old Harmon came in five-strokes ahead of Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., who was second in the field of 57 of the world's best golfers.

Bobby Jones, making his annual tournament appearance, registered another 79 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 315, his worst competitive showing.

In third place with 287 was Chick Harbert of Detroit who blew up on the first nine of the final round after starting the day as the chief threat to Harmon.

Bobby Locke, the putting wizard from Johannesburg, South Africa, had to be satisfied with a 291. So did Herman Heiser of Akron, the 1946 winner.

Mather May Get Massillon Post

HAMILTON — (INS)—Hamilton high school football fans waited fearfully today for an important decision by Coach Chuck Mather.

Authentic sources said Mather has been offered the vacant Massillon coaching berth and is undecided whether to accept.

Mather's 1947 team, lost only one game and he was chosen to coach the Southern entry in this summer's high school all-star tilt.

Big Name Bowlers Due To Roll In N-J Meet

Mansfield's big shot bowlers, who have been watching the lesser lights blast away at the Richmond alleys in the News-Journal head pin tournament during the opening days, are slated to try their skill this week and next.

Such pin luminaries as Orrie Grable, Art Hilborn, Brig Young, Abe Keefe, Horsey Walrick, Fritz Vogel, Al Stirtzinger, Bob Lynch, and the rest of the big gunners will have to be in good form to displace the present leader, Roy Craig.

Craig took the lead the opening day with a 323 series, compiled on games of 96, 112, and 115. Craig was rolling his second series, as he tumbled only 267 his opening blast, but followed with his pace setting mark, Craig had 17 strikes and 10 nine-pin counts in his big series.

Walter Bailey, after getting a six-pin count his first frame, bumped six strikes in a row the first game and wound up with 108. He then hit 100 and 108 for 316 and the top spot in Class B, and did not miss the head pin in 36 straight shos.

The Ashtand Truck and Implement team, firing against the White Trucks, hammered 3,034 in the Buckeye Traveling league at the Colony planks yesterday with Kelley packing the team with 658 and with Schlingman hitting 641.

Kelley had 254 the middle game as the team had a brilliant 1,116, with every man over the 200 figure. Wolf had 607 for the losers.

The P. D.'s Bar team faced what looked like an impossible job yesterday. The women had to win all three games from Purdy's Sheet Metal of Shelby to win the North Central Ohio women's traveling league title—and then the girls did the impossible.

The local girls won the opener by 26 pins, took the second by 13 sticks and won the championship by taking the third one by 15 pins. Arlene Peters snacked 196, 185, and 180 for a dazzling 561 total in the finale. Adams of Shelby hit 221 the first game and had 537 for the set.

The Misfits and the Flyers finished tied for first place in the Sons of Herman league, which ended yesterday. Secretaries, Librarians, and Deadheads tied for

Lindaire Dogs Take Honors

Lindaire Country Gentleman, black puppy cocker spaniel, won first place in the puppy class of the Toledo Kennel club's 25th annual dog show at Toledo yesterday.

Lindaire Country Gentleman was making his first appearance in major competition. He then took first place in the all-breed puppy division by defeating the sweepstakes winner of the previous day.

Lindaire Royal Highness, recent winner in the Detroit show, was second among quality blacks and added two points to her winnings, making a total of eight points and putting her in a favorable position to finish on the Southern circuit late this month.

Lindaire Royal Highness will compete in Columbus, Chattanooga, Knoxville, Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Cincinnati. Lindaire Playmaker will make the southern trip, too.

Drugs Fatal To Leprosy, TB Germs

Researchers Hope To Beat Diseases

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—First steps toward the development of powerful new drugs to combat tuberculosis and leprosy have been taken by researchers at Mt. Zion hospital here.

Special compounds already have been made that are up to 25 times as effective in test tubes as the newest drugs now in general experimental use against these diseases.

Despite this encouraging start, the drugs are not yet ready for tests on humans. The researchers believe the compounds should be further improved before being used clinically.

In one respect TB and leprosy germs are alike. Both belong to the fungus family.

Against tuberculosis in guinea pigs, first trials of the new compounds showed they were in some respects better and in other ways not quite so good as streptomycin, which is effective in treating certain types of the disease. Some of the new drugs will stop TB germs in cases where streptomycin fails.

Against leprosy germs in test tubes one of the compounds was 25 times as potent as diarsone, a drug now being widely used experimentally.

COMPOUNDS NEW

Twenty-two of the new drugs were made by the researchers, Dr. Benjamin L. Freedlander, tuberculosis specialist, and Dr. F. A. French, biochemist. Seven others were made by the Eastman Kodak company. Some of the Freedlander-French compounds probably never existed before.

These compounds are derivatives of benzothiazole, a chemical commonly used to soften rubber and in dyeing processes. Like some other substances benzothiazole can be built up with other chemical fragments into many different compounds, almost at the will of the chemist.

Diarsone and two companion drugs, promin and promizole, have shown promise against both tuberculosis and leprosy but they have some disadvantages. Diarsone, the apparent favorite, attacks the red blood cells.

In a series of reports to medical journals Dr. Freedlander said the new benzothiazole derivatives were only slightly or moderately toxic. Their most noticeable side effect on guinea pigs was sleepiness.

The most potent ones are 6, 2-diaminobenzothiazole and another labeled 6-amino-2-(N) butoxybenzothiazole. Dr. Freedlander rated them about twice as active as diarsone. They did not damage guinea pig red blood cells.

TRIED IN TEST TUBES Leprosy germs in test tubes stopped growing when the solution containing them was increased by only a ten millionth of its volume through the addition of another of the new compounds. This is 6-amino-2-chlorobenzothiazole. Several other derivatives also were effective.

Whether this last named compound would work against leprosy in humans is a wide open question. Laboratory animals inoculated with leprosy germs do not give reliable tests to pave the way for human experimentation.

Many drugs are effective against TB and leprosy in test tubes which do not work at all in humans. The fact that these trial compounds show up well in first tests and can be rebuilt chemically in many ways gives the researchers hope that some future combination will give medicine a great new weapon against two of mankind's most stubborn diseases.

Mansfielder Learns Cuban Ways as Employee of Embassy

By MARGUERITE MILLER

A Mansfield young woman who has learned to live the Cuban way almost as well as the American is back in Mansfield for a visit.

She is Miss Lucy Patterson, an employee of the Cuban American embassy in Havana.

The embassy has been home for Miss Patterson for the past four years. She interviews the international porpoise who seek entrance into the U. S. From 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. she rarely speaks anything but Spanish.

"Even when I get home I find myself thinking in Spanish and translating it literally into English," she laughed. "People usually stare at me and, no doubt, they wonder what's wrong." So I just catch myself now and wait until I get straightened out."

Her environment, she finds, has changed her social life. If Miss Patterson goes on a date with a Cuban man or even to a movie with Cuban girl friends, the party is chaperoned — usually by the mother of one of the girls.

Miss Patterson admits it seemed a little odd at first, but "it's just an old Spanish custom."

PARTIES CHAPERONED

"No 'nice' Cuban girl ever goes out without a chaperone I was told," she related. "The parties usually consist of two or three couples. The young people can go anywhere, just so long as the chaperone goes along. After the date, all the girls are taken home first, then the boys take the chaperone home. A Cuban girl doesn't even go for an afternoon ride with a Cuban man unless a chaperone is along."

The custom, however, doesn't pertain to American escorts. If a Cuban girl has a date with an American, she may go unchaperoned. So far Miss Patterson has found no other reason for the difference except that the American influence breaks down the custom.

"Cubans are gradually falling away from the custom as their children return from colleges in the U. S. and bring back American ways."

Probably the most traveled feminine member of her 1938 graduating class at Senior high school, Miss Patterson is the object of envy from the girls who "stayed home."

"I don't know why they should envy me," she replied quickly. "My work is very interesting and I love it, but constant traveling makes one a vagabond. You become permanently unsettled. When I'm in Cuba I keep wanting to come home and then when I'm home a while I'm ready to go back."

When she returns this time it means she'll walk into the busiest season at the embassy. Five to six hundred people are the average flood of customers she interviews daily during the summer months. And all this activity goes on while the mercury soars between 90 and 100!

Right now, Miss Patterson is getting a taste of Mansfield's late spring cold snap. She'll be at home for the next month at 194 Vennum avenue, returning to Cuba May 10.

Start Road Repair Work

BUCYRUS — Repairs are going ahead on Crawford county highways which county state highway commissioner H. G. McMichael said, are in the worst condition since 1939. Long periods of sub-zero water and dry ground are blamed.

The repair work is somewhat hampered by lack of proper funds, McMichael said. The budget, worked on a bi-annual plan, does not allow for rising costs of material and labor.

Bucyrus city streets are also being repaired. City Engineer W. F. Pfeleiderer said that because only $20,000 of a needed $50,000 is available, work is being done in the order of urgency. The work is expected to take all summer.

Soldier Shot By Russian Now In U. S.

Youth Enters Army Hospital

WESTOVER FIELD, Mass. — (AP)—Pvt. John Grunden of Portland, Ore., who was shot and wounded by a Russian sentry in Vienna a month ago, today was under treatment at the base hospital here.

Grunden, a dark-haired, husky six-footer, arrived Saturday by plane from Germany on his nineteenth birthday. He told news-men he was "feeling pretty good."

Doctors will decide whether a dum-dum bullet which entered his back and came out through his left arm will necessitate amputation.

Grunden's account of the shooting verified those which were told at the time of the incident. He was shot by a Russian soldier, he declared, after he slipped and fell. "When that took the bullet out they found it was a dum-dum job. I guess that's why it made such a big wound," he said.

Favorite Topic of Conversation

Seniors Await All-Night Class Party

By NITA BRANSON

The favorite topic of conversation among Seniors at Mansfield Senior high school these days is the annual all-night class party, scheduled for May 28.

The question is not "are you going?" but "what you gonna wear?" among the girls and "gotta date?" among the boys.

Always an event to which seniors look forward with enthusiasm, this year's party promises to be something super and extraordinary.

Marilyn Beattie, general chairman, says seniors are going to have the "time of their lives," and a party that will linger on in their memories for years to come.

It will start with the banquet at 6:30 p. m. in the cafeteria, progress to a dance in the gymnasium and continue with an early morning show at the Madison theater.

Although the booking is still tentative, Al Dennis, manager of the Madison theater, thinks he's going to have "The Sign of the Cross" with valiant Susan Peters and Alexander Knox in the cast.

THEN COMES BREAKFAST

But the party won't end there. From the Madison the seniors will drive out to the Recreation Center, where they'll enjoy some bowling and breakfast.

To date, not only have school officials approved the idea of an all-night party for seniors, but parents and Mansfield business men have also expressed approval. Glenn G. Rohleder, principal of senior high school, was the first to give an O. K.

"The idea seems to be meeting with 100 per cent approval of the parents of the seniors," he said. "And all concerned are seriously weighing the plan as a good one. Many parents are offering their services to the committee."

PASTORS LIKE IDEA

Rev. and Mrs. Carveth P. Mitchell, who have agreed to be on hand for the annual festivity, have this to say about the idea:

"To a great many people in Mansfield such a party will seem unusual and unnecessary. However, I firmly believe that the school and class members and their parents are sincere in trying to plan something that will meet the requirements of the 'biggest evening' in high school life yet will avoid any unpleasantness that sometimes follow these events."

"We are deeply interested in the welfare of all our young people and are ready to do all in our power to help make their good times the best."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Blaknik, who have a son in the senior class, are enthusiastic.

senior class adviser, said the idea is patterned after the successful event held last year at Upper Sandusky.

"Usually," Juniper said, "the party ends about midnight and everything has a sort of let-down feeling. The seniors are all dressed up ready to celebrate but there's nothing else to do but drive around the countryside or go home disconsolately."

"So this year we decided to plan a party that would completely fill the seniors' idea of a good time. There'll be chaperones to help the youngsters enjoy themselves and we hope by providing enough festivity to prevent some of the after-party accidents that often follow such events."

"The senior class of 1948 and the faculty advisers are to be highly commended for their common-sense approach to this problem," said E. O. Morton, another parent. "They can make their class party a memorable occasion, one that can be looked back upon with pleasure for years to come."

In explaining the purpose of the all-night party, Ralph Juniper,

NEVER DONE IT MOTLEY, MY DEAR! THE VILLAGERS CONNECTED THE STATUETTE WITH THIS PLACE! THEY PUT US ON THAT OLD ROAD KNOWING WE'D FOLLOW IT HERE... UMM, IT'S MOST UNFORTUNATE THAT LIFE AND CHARLES ARE STILL WITH US.

MEANWHILE, IN ANOTHER PART OF THE RUINS...

WHAT! TRANQUILITY!... I SHOULD RESIST HAVE IT BROKEN BY INTERLUDES FROM BLASTED CIVILIZATION--RESENT IT QUITE DEEPLY!

President Sees Tough Fight Ahead

Ends Third Year In White House

WASHINGTON—(CP)—President Truman today completed his third crisis-ridden year in the White House with expectations that the worst is yet to come.

Despite his calm, confidence that things will turn out all right for him politically, Mr. Truman was not kidding himself as he started his fourth year in the presidency.

He knew he was in for the toughest political sledding of his career between now and November. But as of today, he was jut-jawed in his determination to stay in the race for re-election, and fight as hard as possible for victory over his Republican opponent.

Three years ago today, Mr. Truman was projected into the wartime presidency by the death of President Roosevelt. The death news from the little cottage at Warm Springs, Ga., hit Mr. Truman with a hammer blow.

His wife wept. The new President was ashen gray as he solemnly placed his hand on the Bible in the White House and gravely intoned the nation's most serious oath of office.

But it wasn't that he lacked confidence in himself as he was elevated to commander-in-chief of a powerful, complex nation at war.

He knew that the presidency meant the end of virtually all privacy; the end of normal family life, the end of many friendships he valued so highly.

Mr. Truman's current state of health is excellent, according to his physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham. He's not bothered by colds which plague many Washingtonians in the winter and spring. His weight stays around 175.

Army Colonel Backs Up Tale Of Bird 'Big As Airplane'

ALTON, Ill.—(CP)—A former army air base commandant Col. U. S. Sigmund, today is backing up the tale of two Belvidere, Ill., residents who reported seeing a bird "bigger than an airplane."

Sigmund, wartime commander of the Kearns, Utah, air base, said he saw what was probably the same or a similar bird last Sunday while horseback riding four miles north of Alton.

"I thought there was something wrong with my eyesight," Sigmund said. "But it was definitely a bird and not a glider or a jet plane."

"It was about the size of a small pursuit plane and appeared to be flying northeast at between 4,000 and 5,000 feet," Sigmund said. "Two army planes had just flown over in the same direction, and I thought at first it was a pursuit craft following them."

"But from movements of the object and its size, I figured it could only be a bird of some tremendous size."

"What I had ISN'T good enough for you!"

Do we really understand how much we all lose when a youth drops out of school too soon? This authoritative article discusses one of the most serious problems facing our nation today

by DR. JAMES ROWLAND ANGELL
Public Service Counselor
National Broadcasting Company

Dr. James Rowland Angell

OF ten children who finish fifth grade, only eight go to high school. Only four graduate!

"Yet never has education meant so much! Our youth must have training to match the times: for their jobs, for their leisure, for citizenship in a free nation.

"Education can bring many rewards . . . It can widen the choice of jobs, so one is happier in work which suits him. It can fit him to earn more.

"High school helps our boys and girls to think for themselves. And to understand their heritage as Americans

"But perhaps most important, the educated person can share more fully the rich fruits of literature, of the arts and sciences. He can live more in the world of ideas.

"If parents understand the true values of education; they will try to persuade their children from leaving school too soon. Lack of money, however, is often the real trouble. Even in such cases, parents may work out ways to keep the child in school a little longer. Every year counts . . .

"Tomorrow's world will be anything but simple. It will be alive with new responsibilities and new opportunities. Let us make sure our youth is prepared to meet it!"

From a little more school . . . a lifetime of benefits!

ALEC SNYDER (as we'll call him) was already 15; and big for his age. He wanted to leave school and get a job. "That way," said Alec to his Dad, "I'll be bringing money home to you—instead of your spending money on me! After all, you only had a grade school education!"

"But what I had isn't good enough for you," said Dad. "You're going to need that extra schooling!" And he's right. Today, high schools are turning out nearly four times more graduates than they did thirty years ago. That means much tougher competition for young Alec when he gets out in the world. As Dad said afterwards to Alec, "You work at your schoolbooks; I'll work with our bankbook. And between us, we'll get you that diploma!"

... if he's YOUNG,
make plans now
for his education!

Agree to put something aside every month for high school and college expenses. Start planning now to be sure he'll stay in school long enough.

... if he's OLDER,
be sure he gets enough schooling!

Explain all the benefits of just a few more years of school. If money is a problem, your boy or girl might take spare-time jobs. See the principal.

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

• Budgeting for your children's education is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it, if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY... The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc. So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then, you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW... We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

Clearing at least one bothersome question, it is said that "a woman's hat is to be worn, not explained."

One close observer estimates the snail's pace at one mile in ten years—which makes it a nice symbol of progress toward peace.

One observer has an idea that some church attendants become suddenly impressed with the high cost of living when they see the collection plate coming toward them.

Which Will Nebraska-Voters Prefer?

UNLIKE the Wisconsin primary election last week, in which only three Republican candidates were entered, tomorrow's primary in Nebraska will bring the names of seven men before the Republican voters for expression of preference—and the outcome will be interesting, even if not accepted as materially influencing the choice of a presidential nominee at the Philadelphia convention month after next.

Under Nebraska law, the name of any candidate who receives 100 petitioning signatures can be entered. Permission of the candidate is not needed and no candidate can withdraw. This broadens the field for selection, although it runs counter to old-line party politics, which prefers appearance of state unity in support of some particular aspirant.

In addition to the three candidates entered in the Wisconsin primary—Stassen, MacArthur and Dewey—Nebraska voters will find four other names on their ballots—Senator Robert A. Taft, Governor Earl Warren, of California; Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, and House Speaker Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts.

The surprising results in Wisconsin have tended to increase public interest in the Nebraska primary, and whatever tomorrow's voting may disclose, the showing of each of the seven entrants will bring another flood of speculation as to possible effect on the big show in Philadelphia in June.

Pre-Election Letters To Italy

AN INTERESTING phase of the 1948 election campaign in Italy has been provided from the United States by the Order of Sons of Italy, an organization of Americans of Italian extraction. Some 120,000 members of the order have written more than two million letters to friends and relatives in Italy, urging them to vote against the communists in the April 18 elections. Cablegrams are being promoted for the final days of the campaign.

From time to time various organizations of foreign-extraction groups in the United States have caused concern over efforts to influence American politics, concern usually based on a fear that such groups were operating on orders from abroad. It is unusual to find one of these organizations in an intensive effort to influence affairs in the old country.

Whether or not it has any important influence on the Italian elections, this letter-writing campaign of the Order of Sons of Italy is a manifestation of the satisfaction a racial minority group finds in the conditions of life in a democracy. The desire of Italians in America to sustain a democratic government in Italy is a high compliment to the American system.

Example of Exceptional Efficiency

EXCEPT for those who had opportunity to gain more than a casual acquaintance with George Hawkins during his years of association with Louis Bromfield, there is probably little realization of the wide variety of talents required in satisfactorily filling such a position.

The death of Mr. Hawkins, at an age when many more years of service might reasonably have been expected, serves to emphasize the need for cultivation of qualifications such as he evidenced in great abundance—for this is a vocation in which supply falls short of opportunities.

No single qualification would have sufficed in a position such as was held by Mr. Hawkins, as there was requirement for not only secretarial efficiency and managerial ability, but also for the peculiar talent of combined graciousness in welcoming the many guests at Malabar and gently but firmly turning away hordes of curiosity-seekers who were inclined to regard the Malabar home of the Bromfields as a public place, open to all comers for inspection.

Like many other men who have attained prominence in one or more fields of activity, Mr. Bromfield's time must be carefully allotted to various phases of his work—writing, study, farm duties, speaking engagements, and the like—and it was as a "buffer" between his employer and time-killing details that Mr. Hawkins faithfully, efficiently and dependably performed a service of inestimable value.

His death occasions deep regret among all who knew him, but he will be most greatly missed by his friends and associates at Malabar farm.

Waste of Time and Energy

"I KNEW it all along!" So many husbands will say when they hear of the findings of the Eureka Williams Corporation. Surveying 24 households, the corporation finds that house-cleaning costs housewives too much time and energy.

The trouble is said to be that they rely too much on elbow-grease. By using modern electrical equipment they could reduce their average weekly cleaning time by 36 per cent and remove 185 per cent more dirt. What they have been doing, apparently, is to shift the dirt from one spot to another, or not disturb it at all.

One finding of the survey will hardly astonish mothers. Homes with small children require more cleaning, and such routine jobs as making beds, hanging up clothes and emptying baskets, take two hours out of every week.

The investigation covered ordinary current house-cleaning. It would be interesting to see what it would make out of spring cleaning activities.

An enthusiastic essayist on Spring exclaims: "Once more the sound of laughter is heard in the land—but it stops rather suddenly when John L. Lewis is mentioned in the conversation."

GEN. LUCIUS D. CLAY, American military governor in Germany, "I think war can be avoided now that we have a clear-cut objective: the restoration of political and economic stability in western Europe and the determination to see it through."

ATTORNEY GENERAL TOM CLARK: "I do not think there are any loopholes in the Taft-Hartley act through which John L. Lewis could escape today."

Russia Tightens Grip On Little Finland

THE NEW Russo-Finnish mutual-aid treaty has been described by leading Finnish politicians as cementing the little Baltic republic tighter into the eastern bloc but preserving the country's sovereignty.

On the face of it that would seem to be so. Certainly there is no question about Finland being more firmly bound to Russia. However, because of that very fact it strikes me the wish is father to the thought about preservation of freedom—just as it may have been in the cases of the fiercely independent states of Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Look at them now, sweating under the Soviet yoke!

Anyway, let's examine this latest Russian move more carefully and not rush to conclusions. These are days when wishful thinking can be mighty dangerous.

In the first place, why should Moscow drop cave-man tactics in dealing with Finland? Well, for one thing the Finns likely would prefer to go down fighting rather than accept servitude by treaty—and the bolsheviks can't afford to stir up a conflict of that sort at this critical juncture.

The communist rape of Czechoslovakia is still a horrifying subject of anxious discussion about the firesides of western Europe, and the Reds want to let the matter die down. The Scandinavian countries of Sweden and Norway, lying close to Finland, are on edge. So is Denmark.

Then, too, the Muscovites are anxious to put their best side forward for the benefit of the Italian communists in the forthcoming national election. Control of Italy is a strategic prize without price for Russia in her drive to communize western Europe and thus dominate the entire continent. In lesser degree this also is true of France.

Part of Expansion Plan.

SO MOSCOW is using Finland as a mirror to reflect the sun of Soviet beneficence and thereby blind free nations to what is going on. Actually the nature of the Russo-Finnish treaty doesn't alter one iota the fact that Moscow can take over the little country any time it wants to.

The bombardment of Fort Sumter, the opening engagement of the Civil War, was begun on April 12, 1861.

Of one thing we may be dead certain: There is no possibility whatever of Russia ever allowing development of a situation which would deprive her of control of Finland. That isn't merely a matter of a political aim. It's military. Moscow regards Finland as an essential base for defense of Russia's northern wing. The Red line across central Europe was consolidated when Russia took over Czechoslovakia. It remained to deal with the northern and southern wings—Finland in the north, and the Iranian-Turkish-Greek zone on the south. Finland will have been taken care of if her parliament ratifies the new treaty.

How Stassen Does It

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WHERE Harold Stassen may come out in the wind-up at the Republican convention in Philadelphia toward the end of June it is not the purpose here to speculate upon or try to foretell.

The still young man, who will arrive at the ripe age of forty-one on the day of his next birthday—the Nebraska primary tomorrow—has done very nicely so far, most recently when he bowled over General Douglas MacArthur and Governor Thomas E. Dewey in the Wisconsin primary to gain the title of "Giant-Killer."

It is the purpose here rather to suggest the great human interest story in the man from Minnesota who is trying to become president. It combines something of Paul Bunyan in the physical stamina and fortitude he has displayed in his campaigning; something of the Horatio Alger hero who works hard, studies hard and goes places, which he exemplified as a young man, for instance, when he was a night pullman conductor to help pay his way through University of Minnesota law school; something of the self-confident young hero of the novels who breaks precedents and recognizes no obstacles; something of the William Pitt the Younger tradition in a natural instinct, exhibited at an early age, for politics and statecraft, for he is innately shrewd in political maneuver and operation, but with that added ingredient of vision that raises him above so many of his kind.

Harold Stassen, of course, is no brash newcomer suddenly come to bloom. He's been on the way a long time, and has had a national name and reputation for a long time.

He first came to national attention a decade ago when he was elected governor of his state at the age of 31, the youngest ever to hold that post. He was twice re-elected. His broad outlook upon the world and his conception of our nation's place in it was revealed when he became a pioneer in the campaign for the United Nations, long before it became a reality and when it was not too safe politically to step out on such a crusade.

He added to his stature as one of our delegates at the San Francisco conference that created the United Nations. If his views had prevailed in some important particulars that might have been a more effective instrument. He made an enviable record as a naval officer on the staff of Admiral William F. Halsey in the Pacific.

Made Own Decisions.

SOON AFTER he had retired from the service he shocked the

Truman Persists In 'Shooting From Hip'

(Editor's Note—On the anniversary of President Truman's third year in office, Drew Pearson hands him the brass ring, good for one free ride—and in this case a rough one—the Washington Merry-Go-Round.)

WASHINGTON—A few months after FDR's death catapulted Harry Truman into the most important elective office in the world, he was sitting on the front porch of the summer bungalow of the widow Morris at Reelsfoot Lake, Tenn. Newspapermen in the party asked him about the atomic bomb. Would the United States, they queried, keep the bomb's know-how a secret? The new President emphatically replied that we would.

Almost falling off the porch, newsmen scurried into the night, looking for telephones.

Mr. Truman looked around at George Allen.

"What did they want to leave for?" he asked. "There's still plenty of liquor."

Harry Truman did not seem to realize that his words, as President of the United States meant a lot more than his words as Harry Truman, the senator.

Three years have now passed since the fateful afternoon when Harry Truman became President of the United States, and even today he still does not seem to realize that his words and actions reverberate around the world.

By DREW PEARSON

As Jimmie Byrnes describes it, he still "shoots from the hip," he still makes snap decisions that influence the fate of millions. He still seems unconcerned that our jerky, up-and-down-hill, somersault policies would make it difficult for our friendliest allies to remain our allies—except that we have too much money to lend. They never know what we're going to stand for day after next.

Sizing Up Truman.

WHEN historians chronicle the story of Harry Truman, they will probably evaluate him as honest, sincere, courageous, stubbornly right about such domestic policies as price control, taxes, civil rights, labor and monopoly.

But they will also accuse him of putting personal loyalty ahead of national welfare. They will find that his temper frequently proved his undoing, that he was hotheaded, unbalanced in times of crisis, and so frequently flew off-the-handle on vital decisions that the American people finally lost confidence.

Assignment: America

Echo Answers, 'Who?'

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—If you would like to get an idea as to what kind of a presidential election year this is going to be, listen to the loud silence echoing up and down Pennsylvania Avenue today.

Such noisy silence is caused by the quiet repetition of a single question, to wit:

"Who's going to win the Nebraska primary tomorrow?"

Once that query is tossed upon the capital's breezes, things become so still you can hear the starlings chirping all the way from the White House to the Senate office building.

And to this correspondent, who still contends that the average voter in this benighted republic can raise up and confound the politicians, the newly-learned humility of that vast silence is quite a cheering thing.

Now, make no mistake. The Dewey forces, the Stassen supporters and the Taft troops—not to mention the men behind MacArthur, Vandenberg, Warren and Martin—still stoutly insist that their candidate can't possibly lose. But that, as the old Army phrase put it, is standard operating procedure for a political camp. And it doesn't mean a thing.

But the silence that emanates from the ranks of the uncommitted in-betweeners, from the perennial political prophets and from the cigar-chewing hotel-room experts is a vastly different thing. It is a strange cloak which looks somewhat out of place upon their bulky shoulders.

They've been that way since the Wisconsin primary last week.

Prophets Flabbergasted.

NOBODY yet quite knows what happened to all the crystal balls around town last week—except that the visibility certainly got bad out Wisconsin-way. In fact, it clouded up and rained all over the political weather prophets.

Anybody around town could tell you (and would at the raise of a questioning eyebrow) that Stassen didn't have a chance. As a

What Is Happiness?

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LEARNED a lot when I made my big discovery about happiness.

Of course happiness, as I had conceived it, was a wonderful thing to have and it was natural to desire it. But it wasn't actually necessary for an abundant life. You can live a strong and full and useful life even without achieving that childish, selfish kind of happiness.

You can be happy even if tragic things happen to you. You can be happy even though you are poor and obscure and ill. You can be happy under any circumstances.

Provided you make up your mind to be.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, a lot of folks underestimated Harold Stassen. I can't figure out why he hasn't been regarded as more dangerous. He's a man who came from the bottom up, got ahead against a lot of adversaries, rose to be the youngest governor his state ever had, and was in the thick of the Pacific war with Admiral "Bull" Halsey.

And on top of all that he got a couple of photo finishes with John Kieran on the Information Please program!

You never can tell about the influence of those quiz programs. I wouldn't be surprised to see the ticket composed of Stassen and Kieran, or vice versa.

I guess Tom Dewey must be convinced that there was vote rationing out in Wisconsin.

Daily Bible Thought

Doth not he see my ways and count all my steps?—Job 31:4.

matter of fact, his whole campaign was a perfect example of political naivete.

Figuratively speaking, the boys patted Happy Harold on the head and said, "Nice boy, but he started running too soon. Besides, he's been carrying too much water on both shoulders. Also, whoever heard of a man campaigning a couple of years in advance?"

And, let it be said for the sake of the forlorn capital prophets, they were not alone in such predictions. People who had pipelines and personal representatives out in Wisconsin, putting their ear to the ground and their finger to the public pulse so to speak, also were led astray somehow.

"Just got word from Joe out in Wisconsin," they would say. "It's a shoe-in for MacArthur."

Or else "Dewey's home free." And if you tried to tell them that your Uncle Henry, who was a dairy farmer out there, felt differently—that he sort of liked this guy Stassen—they laughed in your face.

"And what does your Uncle Henry know about politics? Tell him to go back to his cows, chum!"

That was the first of the week. Then came the voting in Wisconsin—and you know how Stassen lowered the boom on the smart boys.

As far as the final outcome across the country is concerned, it probably doesn't mean a thing.

Happy Harold still has a long hard row to hoe between Wisconsin in April and Philadelphia in June—all the harder now, in fact, since the boys are taking him serious!

But today, nobody is going around flatly predicting who is going to win tomorrow in Nebraska. In fact, they admit the fight is wide open.

And it's a real pleasure, whenever it happens, to see the pundits and king-makers and country-runners cowering—when little, old politician-peeker John Q. Voter rises up and cracks the ballot whip!

As Cerf Tells It

An efficiency expert demanded a long vacation from his boss, but emerged from the interview with his spirits sadly deflated. "The boss has a heart of stone," he reported. "He told me that if I'm really as efficient as I claim, I can have just as much fun in one week as other people have in two."

It doesn't depend on a certain environment or situation. No one can give it to you and no one can take it from you unless you let them.

And no material luxury can create it for you.

It depends entirely on your own state of mind.

You can't, of course, expect to be ecstatically cheerful under all circumstances, but however great the shock or burden, you can rein the plunging chaos within you.

You can say to your soul, "Be still."

I learned this to be true in the hardest place of all—above a grave. And having learned it I caught my first glimpse of the vast vistas which lie beyond all our adversities.

I found that if I would summon my whole strength I could face my challenge in life or death. And I could know that life was not just a beginning and an ending but an eternal circle.

A circle through which we all must pass.

A God-emanence which we all must know.

A resurrection which awaits us all.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The common cold is one of the most highly infectious of all communicable diseases and it is estimated that the average person has two colds a year.

Truman, used to say: "Sure he made a mistake, but he was man enough to come out and admit it."

The trouble is that no President can afford to make many mistakes.

Shooting From Hip.

JIMMIE BYRNES, when secretary of state, was always careful to warn Truman, when he had to decide on an international matter, not to make up his mind until he, Byrnes, had explained both sides. Byrnes knew that if he wanted to, he could get any decision wished merely by presenting one side first. For one of Truman's greatest weaknesses is shooting from the hip.

That's why Secretary of Defense Forrestal, in a few brief minutes of pleasant conversation, was able to reverse a decision made by the Truman administration and the United Nations on Palestine after weeks of careful debate.

Even after three years of holding press conferences, Harry Truman still does not realize that his words reverberate round the world. Last month, he called this columnist a liar. This affected only one man. But in the very same press conference he also called his own secretary of state a liar on Chinese policy. This affected 400,000,000 people.

He said that at no time had the United States considered taking Chinese communists into the Chinese government. Newsmen attending the conference, realizing Truman's mistake, tried to save him. They asked questions calculated to remind the President that he himself had sent a special ambassador to China for the express purpose of getting the Chinese communists to participate in the Kuomintang government.

But either the President couldn't remember or didn't want to remember this once widely publicized fact.

He himself, when General Marshall was appointed special ambassador to China, had announced that Marshall was undertaking the mission in order to bring the communists and Chiang Kai-shek into a coalition government. And Marshall on his return from China announced to the world that he had failed because of racial intolerance on both sides. These were irrefutable, public statements.

Yet the President stubbornly stuck to his contrary statement, even when newsmen diplomatically gave him a chance to crawl off the limb.

Bawled Out Stalin.

PROBABLY Truman's most disastrous shot from the hip occurred when he was a senator. That shot is still ricocheting down the corridors of the Kremlin, spattering occasional blood in our delicate relations with that most difficult of all nations.

In June 1941 when Harry Truman was senator from Missouri and Germany invaded Russia, he was asked by the press for comment. "If we see that Germany is winning," he said, "we ought to help Russia. And if we see that Russia is winning, we ought to help Germany, and that way let them kill as many as possible."

A lot of people have shared that view—then and since. But they were not members of the United States Senate, serving under a President who laid down a national policy of aid to Russia.

Naturally, the gentlemen in the Kremlin read the newspapers. Naturally also, when Stalin sat down with the new President of the United States at Potsdam, this remark was not forgotten.

Probably it was even re-emphasized by the bawling out Truman gave Stalin on the first day of their meeting—a bawling out which caused that great foreign-affairs expert, White House Military Aide Harry Vaughn, later to remark:

"Chief, you certainly gave it to him. That was wonderful."

Stalin has deserved many a bawling-out as far as Soviet-American relations are concerned. But you can't reprimand a chief of state as if he were a schoolboy on the first day you meet him—and then expect future relations to be cordial.

So when historians chalk up the final record of Harry S. Truman they may well compare him to a freight-locomotive engineer who suddenly finds himself pulling a streamliner.

And as we near the end of Harry's run, the United States of America is still on the tracks, but the sleepless, shaken-up passengers just don't want to ride with him at the throttle any more. At the next division point they are pretty sure to seek a new engineer.

19 Violators Lose Sales Tax License

Glander Cites 104 More Firms

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander today put out of business 19 merchants on charges of tax dodging. Two of them are from the Mansfield area.

At the same time, Glander cited an additional list of 104 firms, to show cause why their vendor's licenses should not be revoked. They were charged with failure to have sales tax stamps on hand and failure to tear off stamps for purchasers. The list of citations include one Galion firm and one in Loudonville.

The 19 merchants whose licenses were revoked were among a group of 136 cited by Glander earlier in the year. He said they had failed to request a hearing on charges of willful violation of the tax law.

Glander said all merchants cited were being given a full opportunity to be heard.

"I recognize the severity of the penalty of putting a merchant out of business," the commissioner said. "We are careful to see that no injustice is done."

Glander said, however, the tax department intended to obtain full compliance with the tax laws.

Merchants whose licenses were ordered revoked today include James W. Park-Robert Osmond of the Osmond Specialty Co., Box 749, Mt. Vernon, and Kenneth Brown, R. D. No. 2, Mt. Gilead.

"The citations of the 104 merchants are part of the tax commissioner's recently adopted policy of requiring uniform and consistent compliance with the sales tax law," Glander said. "All vendors cited have a right to a hearing under the provisions of the administrative procedure act."

The new citations include: J. E. Young, CCC service, Main and Mt. Vernon, Loudonville, and Robert Vid. C. Robert's Wine store, 228 Harding Way east, Gallon.

British Smash International Ring Of Cigaret Smugglers

FRANKFURT — (AP) — An international ring that smuggled cigarettes potentially worth $45,000,000 into Germany, has been smashed. British military government officials have announced.

Officials said the gang was made up of an American, a Belgian, a German, two Danes and four Poles. The nine will be tried for smuggling, according to authorities.

An estimated 30,000,000 cigarettes were believed involved in the smuggling operation. British said 20,000,000 have already been confiscated.

Publishers Study Proposal To End Long Chicago Strike

CHICAGO — (AP) — Representatives of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers Association have revealed they are considering a printer's union contract proposal which would end the four and one-half-month-old strike against six Chicago newspapers.

John J. O'Keefe, association secretary, said representatives of the publishers and Local 16, International Typographical Union (AFL) would meet today for more negotiations.

Neither the union nor the publishers would comment on the nature of the proposals prior to the meeting.

The publishers offered a "complete contract" including a $6 weekly general pay increase early this week. The increase was not retroactive, publishers said.

Teen Talk—Gossip From M. H. S.

By ANN SCHÜENMAN

IT'S SPRING and a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of — and so does a girl's. Spring has arrived at MHS, too. All the bushes are starting to bloom, classes are being cut, and the walls even have taken on the color of the changing season. Some rooms are pink, others green, some blue, or maybe yellow, and even some have taken on the shade of aqua. It is a very pleasant way to welcome in the new season. . . .

Marian Haring has been chosen to reign as queen at the track meet. The other four lovelies that will be seated at her side are Joan Freeland, Gloria Morton, Marilyn Beattie, and Betty Long, last year's football queen. . . . Margaret Reed has caught a train headed for Duke university. She is going down to attend a formal dance. . . . Don McFarland has had a change of heart. He is now going to the prom with Barbara Conner instead of Betty DeLaney, so Betty is going with Bobby Richards. . . . Congratulations to Joan Freeland and Dixie Scoles for winning the American Association of University Women's awards at the annual tea Tuesday evening. . . .

There seems to be some controversy over the way the seniors want to march on class day. They can't make up their minds whether it will be with their dates for the prom or by height. Some of the short girls are asking the committee members where they are going to find boys short enough for them to march with. . . . The "Teen Twist" sponsored by the Blue Tri is one of the much looked for events of the near future. All of the girls are searching the stores for gay spring formals. . . .

Here's hoping that Mrs. P. D. Bowles, Mr. Rohleder's secretary, is feeling much better and will soon be back at her desk. . . . Quite a number of students are going to take the annual State Scholarship tests. Here's wishing each of the 380 pupils, taking it, good luck. . . . Have you noticed Elsie Bromfield's new hair style? She has had it shortened quite a little bit. . . . Johnny Hittenrauch is now relieved of a great worry. He has found a job again. You will be able to find him up at Sears and Roebuck's, hard at work.

The choir's concert was a very big success. Congratulations to each member. . . . One member of MHS who is spending him time in the hospital is Harry Osburn. Hope you're feeling better, Harry. . . . Don Chambers claims he isn't going to have a date for the prom. Get to work, girls. . . . One little souris (mouse) caused quite a commotion in French class the other day. Well, as I said before, "It's spring and a young girl's fancy turns to thoughts of rest." So I'll sign off for now.

Strong War Fears Felt By British

England Lacks Hope Of Victory

LONDON—(AP)—Fear of war today is a major element in the minds of the British people. This is not intended as a sensational statement but as a calm and honest appraisal of the public mood as reflected in the speeches of government leaders, newspaper editorials, and in daily contact with English friends.

Anyone living in England must be aware of the sombre change that has touched the thinking of all British adults since the communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Unlike 1939, there is no general confidence that Britain could win another war. Most Britons feel that—win, lose, or draw—the next war would mean the end of England.

The general mood was summed up recently in an editorial in the London Daily Mail which stated: "Everybody is asking: will there be another war? Today, less than three years after the second world war, a third is not merely thinkable but possible. Some statesmen think it probable—if nothing is done to stop it."

"If war were remote the R. A. F. would not have been told to be ready for emergencies; civil defense preparations would not be going forward in Britain; there would be no civil service purge of communists."

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

"This last measure is a security precaution. The international situation being what it is, any government which failed to take it would be guilty of criminal negligence."

"Who is the 'enemy'? President Truman has no doubt. He says bluntly that it is Russia who has bedeviled Europe—and he is right. His frankness is refreshing."

"We do not believe Russia wants war, and certainly nobody else wants it. But she is working for power domination by all means short of war, which is a very dangerous thing to do. At any moment she might start something from which neither she nor any other nation could withdraw."

Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, was equally forthright in a recent speech when he said:

"Let socialist simpletons who urge cooperation with communists take warning."

"Czechoslovakia today proves that the communists are enemies to parliamentarism or any other kind of democracy, that they will stoop to any depth of blackmail or violence in their attempt to seize power."

"There can be no mistaking the lesson to be read in the hidden preparations and ruthless use of the communist action committees in Czechoslovakia. The warning will not be lost on the British people or, I trust, on the free democracies of France, Italy, and elsewhere."

Candidates Appear At Dem Dinner

DIAMOND RADIATION COUNTER—The diamond is clamped in the small black cylinder atop larger one (right). The number of peaks per minute on the oscilloscope (left) is indication of strength of radiation.

Diamond Atomic Counters Developed By Scientists

WASHINGTON—(CP)—The old saw about necessity being the mother of invention holds just as true in today's atomic age as in the days when Benjamin Franklin recorded electrical impulses by flying a kite in a thunderstorm.

Atomic scientists, held back in critical research because of an intense shortage of equipment such as Geiger-Muller counters to detect extremely minute quantities of radioactive material, have found a solution to their problems in the diamond.

Not only have they found another way of detecting atomic radiation, but have found that the use of diamonds in this work often is even more satisfactory than the Geiger-Muller counters.

Through studies conducted by Dr. L. F. Curtiss of the National Bureau of Standards, it was shown that diamonds are highly sensitive to gamma rays and may be used to detect this radiation in the same way as a Geiger counter.

Dr. Curtiss found that a diamond placed in a strong electric field institutes sharp electrical pulses when gamma radiation is absorbed, and, as with a Geiger counter, a count of pulses gives an indication of the intensity of the radiation.

The diamond counter has not yet been tested for beta radiation, but it is expected that a similar effect may be observed in this case.

MUST BE FLAWLESS

Diamonds used must be colorless and absolutely free of flaws. About one industrial diamond in 40 meets these specifications. Apparently color in a crystal indicates a change in the relation of outer electrons to atomic nuclei.

To use a diamond as a counter, it is clamped between two small brass electrodes maintained at a difference in potential of about 1,000 volts.

A source of gamma radiation brought within range of the diamond sets up pulses of current across the electrodes which after amplification may be detected and counted on an indicating device such as an oscilloscope, a current meter, a set of earphones or a loudspeaker.

In the apparatus used by Dr. Curtiss, primary amplification was effected with a minimum loss of original intensity through the use of a triode very close to the diamond in the circuit.

The output from this tube was then applied to a two-stage amplifier, from which pulses of sufficient magnitude were obtained to operate the detecting instrument. The pulse-producing property of the diamond is believed to be a result of its highly symmetric

Petaim Asks To Have His Case Opened

French Marshal Wants New Trial

PARIS—(AP)—Marshal Philippe Petaim, who headed the collaborationist Vichy government during the last war, has asked his lawyers to reopen his trial.

Petaim, now nearly 92, was sentenced to life imprisonment for treason in August, 1945. He is serving out his life time on the lonely little island called Ile D'Yeu off the French coast.

He is not allowed to receive or send mail, and his only visitor except for prison officials and his attorneys is his wife, who has taken up residence on the island, and goes almost daily to the prison to see him.

Jacques Isorni and Jean Le-maire, Petaim's attorneys, made public today a collection of documents they assert throw new light on Petaim's alleged collaborationist policy during the war.

It includes quotations from speeches by Winston Churchill, an official history of Vichy-United States relations written by American Prof. William L. Langer, and extracts from the diaries of Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law who was executed.

There is nothing in the collection which has not been published in some form previously, but some of it only came to light after Petaim's trial.

A typical extract is the following from Langer's book, which was written with full use of state department archives:

"Was the 1940 armistice the best thing for France or not? From what we know of the matter today, it seems that the answer can only be in the affirmative, and it must be remembered that Marshal Petaim's action enjoyed general approval during those bad days."

from the regular elements only in their atomic weights and power of radio activity, have been described in some science circles as the most important development since the invention of the microscope.

Since the radioisotopes throw out radiation from whatever point they may be and because of the minute particles which may be used, these isotopes can be fed to human beings, animals or plants to detect bodily functions.

Through use of sensitive counters, the paths of the radioisotopes can be followed very carefully and noted by scientists, thus giving new clues in the never-ending hunt for a better and longer way of life.

The radioisotopes are used in medicine, biology and industrial research.

The detection of radioactive emissions is also important in experiments involving nuclear radiation, transmission and disintegration, as well as safeguarding the lives of those engaged in these projects.

Hence the importance of the development of new and more sensitive atomic radiation detectors. The finer the detector, the greater the degree of accuracy which can be obtained in these atomic age experiments.

"KEEP SAVING USED FATS!"

... It's a Habit That Pays"

"My conscience wouldn't let me throw out even a drop of used fats when I know they're still needed so badly. Why, today's shortage of fats and oils is still very serious, our government says."

"I really get a kick out of seeing how much extra fat I can save . . . by melting down trimmings, skimming gravies, really scraping pans. I re-use it, certainly. But there's always something left to make saving worth while!"

"Have you ever stopped to think that used fats are the only kitchen waste that can be turned into cash? That's a good point to remember in these days of higher food costs."

Party Splits Open Way for Presidential Vote Deadlock

Dem Revolt, Third Party Hint Muddle

Electoral College Has Final Power

WASHINGTON, D. C.—CP—The nation's political soothsayers here are peering intently into their crystal balls and predicting that the country may be in for the most thrilling presidential election finish this year since Rutherford B. Hayes nosed out Samuel J. Tilden in the hair-raiser of 1876.

The southern Democratic revolt and the third party candidacy of Henry A. Wallace causes some forecasters to think that the United States should batten down its hatches and prepare for the biggest electoral typhoon of our time. They point out that the big balloting next November could be just a semi-final. The final round might take place in a tense House of Representatives where a little-used part of the election machinery provided by the Constitution itself might be put to use to settle a deadlock in the electoral college.

All of which throws into sharp focus the odd circumstance that officially no one next autumn will be voting for the candidates to be nominated soon by the two major political parties or the "third party" contenders led by Wallace, but will be balloting for relatively obscure citizens who the Founding Fathers thought should do the choosing without regard to politics.

USUALLY A FORMALITY

Dominance of the Republican and Democratic parties—and of the Whigs before the GOP was born—has caused the machinery for electing the president and vice president to become a mere formality, but if no aspirant to the White House commands a majority of the electoral votes it will suddenly become the biggest thing of the hour.

The 11 states of the so-called "solid south," whose Democratic party leaders are angry with President Truman over his civil rights program and smarting over general grievances against the party's high command control 127 votes in the electoral college—the total of their senators and representatives in Congress.

The plan of revolt outlined by Gov. William Munford Tuck of Virginia calls for the state legislatures not to commit these either to the Democrats or Republicans, but to instruct them to vote for a choice of the South alone.

The Constitution leaves it up to each state to choose its own electors as it pleases.

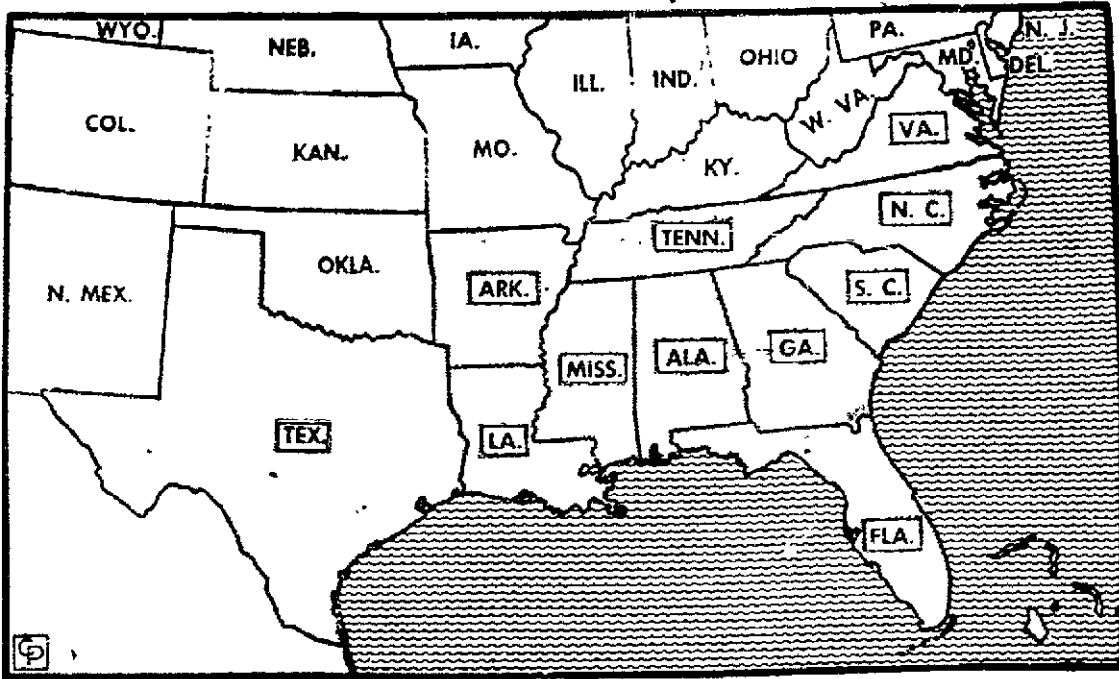

If the choice of president is thrown into the House of Representatives by no candidate achieving a majority of electoral votes when the Senate opens the formal returns from the states, each state will vote in the House as a unit and have one vote.

Usually the opening of the formal electoral college returns sent to the Senate from the states is just a quaint ceremony that confirms what the nation has known for many weeks, but if the southerners persist with their plan, it may be that the unofficial tabulations carried in the post-election extras will be inconclusive.

After all, it took only 20 disputed electoral votes in 1876 to throw the contest between Governor Tilden of New York, the Democratic choice, and Governor Hayes of Ohio, the Republican pick, into chaos. Tilden wound up with 184 electoral votes after the general election, only a tantalizing single vote short of election—so near, yet so far!

SOLID SOUTH—Will the Dixie revolt or Wallace's candidacy prevent a decision in November?

with Franklin D. Roosevelt's leaders in his first nomination fight at Chicago in 1932 to junk the two-thirds rule which they miss so much today. It was a crowning triumph for James A. Farley, Roosevelt's campaign manager, and the death knell to Al Smith's "stop Roosevelt" move.

REVOLT POTENT

The southern revolt is credited with much greater potency as a factor which may deadlock this year's election than the Wallace third-party candidacy, for even the strongest third party showings in history have not been productive of big electoral college votes.

In the fantastic election of 1860, the Democrats were split wide open as they might be this year if the southerners bolt, and Breckinridge won 72 votes while Stephen A. Douglas netted 12.

But on the Constitutional Union ticket received 30 electoral votes, yet Lincoln obtained

Long-Range Forecaster Tells All Good Corn Weather Due

BOWLING GREEN —ANS — Corn belt farmers will face neither flood nor drought this year. You can take the word of 83-year-old Professor Edwin Lincoln Mosely for it.

Dr. Mosely, professor emeritus of biology at Bowling Green State university, has been making long-range weather forecasts with pretty fair success for many years. He bases his predictions on his theory that rainfall in an area repeats itself every 90.4 years, or four times the magnetic sunspot cycle.

Dr. Mosely expects corn belt floods next winter or spring, but no serious drought until 1950.

However, the outlook further east, in western Pennsylvania and most parts of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, is for some shortage of rain late this spring and early this summer, but an excess from then on until August, 1949.

He predicted a surplus of rain for northern Ohio in 1949 only in the first few months.

Dr. Mosely has been working on his theory most of his time since his retirement from the classrooms in 1936. He stated that his prediction of a wide drought in 1946 was "abundantly verified," while his 1947 predictions, he claimed, were "unsatisfactory" only in Ohio and Kentucky.

It Takes Men to Make Steel and PROFITS to protect jobs

Jobs don't just grow. Jobs are made. For when you're talking about jobs, you're talking about the equipment, machinery, buildings and materials that fit together to make a job. The cost averages about $6,400 per job.

And that's where the pinch comes! Like every other dollar, the profit dollar has taken a licking. Its purchasing power... the "real profit"... has been seriously reduced.

When a steel company sets out today to buy a coke oven, this year's profit dollar buys only 40 cents worth of oven compared with 1938.

Steel profits on sales averaged 6.3 cents on the dollar last year.

Steel profits on investment averaged 9.4 cents on the dollar last year.

Steel profits are dangerously low measured against the cost of the things that create new jobs and support old ones.
